Synopsis

Four women-four friends-share a determination to stop a killer who has been stalking newlyweds in San Francisco. Each one holds a piece of the puzzle: Lindsay Boxer is a homicide inspector in the San Francisco Police Department, Claire Washburn is a medical examiner, Jill Bernhardt is an assistant D.A., and Cindy Thomas just started working the crime desk of the San Francisco Chronicle. But the usual procedures aren't bringing them any closer to stopping the killings. So these women form a Women's Murder Club to collaborate outside the box and pursue the case by sidestepping their bosses and giving one another a hand. The four women develop intense bonds as they pursue a killer whose crimes have stunned an entire city. Working together, they track down the most terrifying and unexpected killer they have ever encountered-before a shocking conclusion in which everything they knew turns out to be devastatingly wrong.

The killer wonders "What is the worst thing anyone has ever done?", as he sets out to do worse. San Francisco homicide investigator, Lindsay Boxer, is called to the most disturbing crime scene, a young couple has been murdered on their wedding night, the bride still in her wedding gown. This horrifying scene lays heavy in Lindsay's mind. As the investigation begins, another murder is committed, again another young couple on their wedding night. Lindsay knows she is up against a sick serial killer preying on newlyweds. As the official investigation is leading nowhere, Lindsay teams up with the medical examiner on the case, who also happens to be her friend, to begin their own investigation of these murders. The two women enlist the help of an investigative reporter, and the assistant D.A. to form the women's murder club. The women will meet and discuss how they are going to stop this killer, using the information obtained through the official investigation. The search brings the women to their first, and only suspect...a bestselling author whose first un-published novel depicts each of the murders in detail. With no concrete evidence to pin the murders on the author, the women will be lead on a wild chase to find the killer. Twist and turns keep things spinning out of control, until the final shocking realization of who the killer is!"1st To Die" is the first novel in a brand new series, and what a great novel it is. The plot races along, combining the murders, devastating health issues for Lindsay, and some romance, twisting and turning all the way to the shocking conclusion. James Patterson uses all the key elements used in his Alex Cross series, so fans of that series will not be disappointed with this new book.
